

POLiPHONiC

CONSTITUTIONAL INFRASTRUCTURE FOR CONSCIOUS CREATIVE EXPRESSION

Why do enduring human systems develop constitutions?

Every enduring community eventually reaches the same question:
How do we preserve what matters most as everything else changes?

Constitutions are not created to preserve technology, institutions or processes.
They are created to preserve the principles that allow people to build, participate and grow together over time.

Most systems begin by asking what technology can do.
POLiPHONiC began by asking what should never change and is being built from the ground up as constitutional infrastructure for conscious creative expression.

Its foundations are principles.
Technology exists to serve those principles.

Technology will evolve.
Creative practice will evolve.
The ways people collaborate will evolve.
The tools we use will evolve.
The Constitution exists to create the space for conscious creative expression to flourish.

The purpose of the Constitution is not to govern creativity.
It is to create the conditions in which conscious creative expression can flourish.

Enduring infrastructure is built upon enduring principles.
